GOLF TEAM WINS NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP

UNDER the capable leadership of Shelton State golf coach Jim Collins, the Shelton State Golf Team recently won the NJCAA Division II Golf National Championship. Shelton team members hail from locations as close to home as Birmingham and as far away as England.

Freshman Jason Dillard was named to the number one spot on the All National Team by shooting a four-under par on the back nine to win the individual championship and posting a 71, for a 287 over the four-day period.

Other players from the Shelton team who were named to the All American team were Drew Jones, who finished third with a final-round 74 and a 290 average, and Danny Germaine, who finished with a 73 in the final round and a 296 total.

Collins, who also serves as athletic director for the college, was named national Coach of the Year.

Short named McCray- American Legion Scholarship Recipient

Jonathan Jacob Short of Tuscaloosa has been named this year's recipient of the Lewis McCray - American Legion Scholarship that is awarded each year to an outstanding student.

This scholarship was established in memory of Lewis McCray and in honor of the American Legion. Mr. McCray passed away several years ago.

McCray, who was a native of Moundville,

From 1963 - 1991, McCray served on the USS Alabama Battleship Commission, chairing the commission in 1979 and 1980. He was a Rotarian, Life Deacon of the First Baptist Church of Tuscaloosa, life member of the Tuscaloosa County Preservation Society and the Clan McRae of North America and Clan Johnson. He was national vice-commander of the American Legion and state commander. He was the founding president of the Alabama Preservation Alliance and a member and former president of the Tuscaloosa Genealogy Association. He was also a founding member and former president of the Tuscaloosa Tip-Off Club.

Tuscaloosa Consortium for Higher Education Asks for New Grant Proposals

The Tuscaloosa Consortium for Higher Education (TCHE) is looking for proposals from faculty, staff and students at The University of Alabama, Stillman College and Shelton State Community College for projects to be funded through its small grants program.

TCHE, a partnership formed by UA, Stillman and Shelton in 1997, awards grants three times each year for collaborative projects to be undertaken by faculty, staff and students at the three institutions. Grants support joint projects that promise to contribute to the economic, cultural and educational growth of the region and state.

Grant proposals must include participants from at least two of the participating institutions. Eligible projects may include curriculum development, research, public service and educational or cultural activities. Grants of seed money to be used to seek additional funding are strongly encouraged as are proposals seeking partial support for projects that will also receive funds from other sources.

The deadline for proposal for grants to be awarded this summer is July 15. For more information, contact James P. "Ike" Adams in the UA Office of Academic Affairs at 348-4890 or Arthur Howington at Shelton State, ext. 2253.

ANNIE RETURNS TO TUSCALOOSA AND SHELTON STATE

Annie Oakley takes the stage at Theatre Tuscaloosa's Bean-Brown Theatre this summer for the first time in 25 years when Irving Berlin's hit musical opens July 30. Concluding Theatre Tuscaloosa's 1999 season, Annie Get Your Gun will play here July 30 - August 8.

The last time this hit musical played in Tuscaloosa was in 1974 when it was the first show produced by SummerShow.

"Annie Get Your Gun is a legendary show in musical theater. It's big, it's bold, and has more warmth and humor than most any show I can think of. That it not only has survived but has had numerous revivals, including the current one on Broadway, is a real testament to the magic of the piece," said Paul Looney, executive producer of Theatre Tuscaloosa.

Evening performances begin at 7:30 p.m. with Wednesday and Sunday matinees beginning at 2 p.m. Ticket prices are $12 for adults, $10 for seniors, and $8 for students. Discounts are available for groups of 15 and more. Tickets may be purchased over the telephone by calling the box office, 391-2277, or by stopping by in person beginning July 19. The box office will be open from 9 a.m. - 5 p.m.
